This channel is about education, the producer Merton Davies has been shooting video for 25 years, originally trained in the fine art of animation. In the following short video I explain a small step by step, what my best tinker video has received many requests. It's always easy to follow me step by step, and learn something new. With this small tinker a-video I want to teach you how to combine video files, and add soundtrack to videos. This all is possible with free Adobe software, so this video is free, the program is available from: After you start the program, and are inside the program, you have to first connect the mobile device to your computer. Your mobile device is the device where you take the video. I used my Samsung Galaxy S5 in the following video, you can use any device that's connected to your computer. You can do this with iTunes, Windows Media Player, or any other program that you have installed on your computer. Another thing to have in mind, is to make sure that you close all other programs that are not connected to your computer, when connecting the device to your computer. If you make a mistake, and disconnect your device and the program will crash. You should avoid this as much as possible. When I selected my videos, the first one I have selected is a video I made of a bird. The next one is a video I created with computer animations. With my first video I would like to explain how to combine a video, with other videos and add sound. The music I added is my own music, from my computer. Also the other videos are from Youtube. For the first video I would like to explain the best feature of this program, is it's speed. You can select the videos and the way you want them to combine together, and it will give you the best result. It's easy to use and well structured. If you have any questions, please feel free to ask them in the comments. You can always find me on my YouTube channel, and follow me.
